

beer together. He seemed restless.

21. James Parr, Lieutenant, Dundee Police.

I was on duty in head office on Sunday evening 10th February. The Prisoner came to the office a few minutes before seven. Quite sober and apparently sensible. He said he wanted to speak to me in private. I took him into a private room and he told me that on the day the City Charter came to Dundee - the day the flags up (Monday 4th February) that he and his wife had been drinking. That he did not remember when he went to bed. That on getting up in morning he found his wife lying on the floor dead and a rope about her neck. That he got frightened that he would be apprehended as Jack the Ripper and he cut up the body and packed it in a box where it was still to be found. He told me his name and that he came from London about three weeks before. He said