

4.

there and that he denied it. She said on more than one occasion that he had struck her. Shortly before Christmas last she came to see me. She brought a basket with her jewellery in it. She said she was obliged to bring it as Prisoner was drinking and she was afraid he would break the drawer open and take it to raise money. She did not leave it with me. She said he had the previous night asked her for money to go to a smoking concert - that she refused and that he went behind her and took her purse out of her pocket. She had several times before told me he took money out of her pocket when she refused to give it. She told me he was very unkind to her. I advised her to leave him and go before a Magistrate and state her case against him. She said she would. She only waited for him to mark her again. She said he was always drinking and would let